

Cheap Dyno Testing in Concord

Posted by Litespeeds - 12 May 2008 01:53

We are offering dyno runs at only 30 bucks for 3 pulls with air fuel readings give us a call to make an appointment..

(rwd and specialty cars extra)

Saw this ad on Craigslist so if anyone is interested in doing some dyno testing, I don't think you can beat this price. Might cost a little bit more for our 944's since it is RWD but still probably cheaper than anywhere else. Let me know if anyone is interested. Would be kind of interesting to dyno all our cars and see where we are at in terms of real HP to the rear wheels.

here in RM we are going to do all of the cars at the same time on the same dyno... that way we will know who needs help or rebuilding.

Their website shows the following breakdown in pricing:

dyno rental - $80.00 an hour

dyno tuning - $140.00 an hour

baseline 3 runs with air fuel printout $65.00

Their special is 3 pulls for $30 but that is for FWD cars. I can contact them if you'd like or better yet, maybe Ken, our Series Director can do this for us and negotiate for a good deal. Let's put together a list of names to see who wants to do this and try and figure out when.

How's Saturday May 24th?

I e-mailed them and got a response from Carlos stating that he can do the dyno testing on our 944's for $45 each. I did mention that we might bring 5 cars so am not sure if he will honor that price for 1 or 2 cars at a time. Please post if you are interested and let me which day you can make it. I might not be around on Saturday 24th as that is Memorial weekend. Maybe we can do it in mid June. Let me know.

June is a busy month.

How about July when we don't have a race?
