Anybody outside the SE Region planning on being at the Aug 1-3 event at Road Atlanta for a warm up? There's a T&T on Friday as well.

From the Mid South: David Brooks has already signed up, Jeremy wants to, Pat and Brian have talked about it (though I don't know if Brian's car will be fixed in time) and Mike and Shawn Taylor said they are planning on coming out.

Don't know about any other regions, though.

I got the email back from Will. Not much in the way of reserved paddock this year. They feel there is enough room at R.A. for everyone to set up a "land grab". Will said we could buy a chunk of what is available, but no special deals. We may have to rely on our local guys to help with the "land grab" option.

In other news, Michael Dearstyne will be registering now that he knows he doesn't need to direct, so that will be at least one more.

I will be flying out, and directing only this year.

Now that we know its a land grab we do need local representation and a plan going into setup day. It would be nice to know who all is bringing what so we can plan accordingly. The current land grab setup that SE has doesn't work out well for the 5-8 of us that don't have motor homes, enclosed trailers, etc. Its always a tight squeeze because the moneybags who show up with the double decker/awning/RV setups take plop down in whatever fashion they care to and there is lots of wasted space.

Is there at least going to be a sort of designated area that each class will kind of be assigned?
