944-SPEC - 944SPEC - low cost wheel to wheel racing Generated: 3 September, 2025, 09:57 Help - Scratches on cylinders?

Posted by Omn3d0n - 16 Mar 2009 03:54
Hi,
So we taken apart the motor and found some scratches
on the cylinders. What can I do?
Help
Sid
Re:Help - Scratches on cylinders? Posted by joepaluch - 16 Mar 2009 04:39 depends what they look like. Lines are not scratches. Lines are pretty common. Scratche are things yo can catch a finger nail on. These may or may not be usable. It all depends.
If they are too bad the block is junk.
Re:Help - Scratches on cylinders? Posted by SvoChuck - 16 Mar 2009 04:45 whereis home Sid? I have 3 blocks in my back yard 4 if you count chris's.
Re:Help - Scratches on cylinders? Posted by Omn3d0n - 16 Mar 2009 04:55
Hi,

944-SPEC - 944SPEC - low cost wheel to wheel racing Generated: 3 September, 2025, 09:57

Generated: 3 September, 2025, 09:57
I am in Milwaukee. The car is an 83. Anywhere close with a 1 or two hours would be great.
Thanks
Thanks
Sid
Re:Help - Scratches on cylinders? Posted by joepaluch - 16 Mar 2009 04:57
I a still not convinced the block you have is bad.
Re:Help - Scratches on cylinders? Posted by Sterling Doc - 16 Mar 2009 07:23
Sid,
Pictures would be helpful - need to know if they are real scratches, of just little abrasions. I've got some resources for you. I know Nick has a couple of complete motors, Ray & I have one, and "A Part Above" has blocks in the Ohio (they're new sponsor as well, details coming.
Keep us posted!