

Need a donor car?

Posted by loftygoals - 01 May 2012 09:00

I have a customer's car at the shop that would make a solid donor car for 944 Spec. It is a 87 944. It is currently not running. I have briefly looked at the car and believe it is because of a problem with the reference sensors. I Checked compression and the motor needs a head gasket. It's a 5 speed cars on Spec legal phone dials.

The customer asked me to list it at $1000, but I know he'll take less.

Located in Dallas, TX.

BJ Meyer

Clown Shoe Motorsports

This e-mail address is being protected from spambots. You need JavaScript enabled to view it

214-774-2100

Re: Need a donor car?

Posted by sumguy - 12 Sep 2012 16:20

Is this car still for sale? I am looking to build a car. Thanks

Robert.

Re: Need a donor car?

Posted by AgRacer - 13 Sep 2012 11:25

If its not then I know of another car located in Nolanville.TX that can be had for cheap. Has a spare motor and some new parts as the owner was "restoring" it. Early offset with manual trans, dont know if it has an LSD or what year he replaced the motor with.

Re: Need a donor car?

Posted by sumguy - 13 Sep 2012 16:21

I saw that car on craigslist. I contacted the guy last week and he said someone was supossed come by and look at it last saturday and that he would call me if it didn't sell. I never heard back and the ad was taken down so I am assuming it was sold.
