I am thinking of making the trek out to Texas for memorial day to race at COTA. I will try to get a gaggle of Southeast racers to come with so we can make a good group of it.

The COTA event is now a crossover between the Mid-South and Texas regions. The Mid-South has 5-7 regular racers so hopefully I can convince a few of them to make the trek for season points. If we get 5 or so racers from the MW/SE regions, would the PCA crowd come over for a NASA event at COTA?

I can not speak for others but... it will depend on cost for me.

I will be running COTA in March and would not be against running it again in May but I will be heading to Hastings in June.

If I run I will probably just run one day (if that is an option)
